the scale of the text looks like its made for print instead of web, the titles should be smaller and the body text on some of the pages should be bigger. I would play with that and pull up the images as full screen and compare them to other websites to see the standards for text on the screen.

The colors are good on the first page! but the last page the reddish pinkish color is a bit muted, i think it would look better if it were pinker.

Overall it looks nice and i think it really captures the "crafty" feeling of the show
